President's son campaigns for dad

Speaking to a group of approximately 200 people in the Union Tuesday, Chip Carter made the prediction that his father will win the Illinois primary. The president's son has been campaigning for his father the past three weeks in Illinois, Iowa and California. (News photo by Bob Kasinecz)

by Patty O'Neill

Campaigning for his father, the president, Chip Carter told Eastern students Tuesday the Illinois primary will be the most important contest for presidential hopefuls, and his father will win it.

Carter spoke to a group of approximately 200 people in the Union walkway, then held a press conference later in the day.

"I predict we'll win the Illinois primary," Carter said.

However, Carter felt it would be hard to beat Kennedy in Cook County.

"We'll have a tough time in Chicago, especially against the organization," he said.

Farmers in Illinois will be the number one issue in the primary. Carter said his father plans to run the Illinois primary similar to that of the Iowa caucus.

"Farmers turned out from all over Iowa to vote for my dad. It was the farmers' support that helped him win the caucus in Iowa," Carter said.

Through voting for Carter in Iowa, the farmers made it evident they agree with the grain embargo put on the Soviet Union by the United States, Chip Carter said.

His father applies more pressure to Russia every five to seven days, trying to get them out of Afghanistan, and the grain embargo was just one of his means for applying pressure, Carter said.

Another pressure from the president was the threat to move the Olympics from Russia to Montreal, Canada.

"If the Soviets don't withdraw from Afghanistan by the end of February, my dad will have the athletes vote by secret ballot as to whether or not they will participate in the games. He'll ask them to withdraw, but the decision is theirs," Carter said.

While speaking of foreign policy, Carter said the Ayatollah Khomeini is gradually losing power and increasing in senility. He said he feels the Khomeini regime is not stable enough to stay in power much longer.

"Khomeini repeats himself quite frequently, and changes his mind continuously," he said.

Carter added that the shah is still living in Panama and will not return to the United States because of the problems he would cause.

Carter said he feels the domestic problems in this country have been handled well by his father.

"Lyndon Johnson passed 82 percent of his introduced legislation and my dad has passed 80 percent so far. I think he's doing a great job," Carter said.

President Carter has increased funds for education by 60 percent in the past four years. Chip said his dad hopes to

Enrollment cut 'impossible' to meet within year

by Marsha Hausser

Even though the Illinois Board of Higher Education is requesting that Eastern cut its enrollment by 400 students beginning next year, that figure will be "impossible" to meet within that time, an Eastern official said Tuesday.

President Daniel E. Marvin said that while the BHE's planned enrollment decline is a good idea to manage the future declining enrollments that are expected in the 1980s, a "modest enrollment decline" is the most Eastern can hope for in the coming year.

Current applications are up 19.2 percent from last year and Marvin said that unless a "tragedy" occurred, enrollment could not decrease by the 400 students the BHE is recommending by next year.

Marvin said he was not in favor of a cutoff date for applications, which was suggested by Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs.

"That's a poor way to solve the problem," Marvin said. "It affects student's negatively."

Marvin said that Eastern "will make an effort to be responsive" to the BHE's plans by decreasing its enrollment.

"I want to show the BHE that we do understand the need to decrease enrollments," Marvin said.

The BHE's plan calls for underfunded universities in Illinois—Eastern, Northeastern, Illinois State and Northern—to take a cut in enrollment while receiving additional state funds and for overfunded universities—Chicago Circle, Sangamon State, Southern Illinois—

Edwardsville and Western—to take a cut in their base budgets.

Calling the plan a "bittersweet recommendation," Marvin said underfunded universities will be better off financially even though they will have to cut enrollment, while currently overfunded universities will be faced with sudden budget cuts.

Marvin said he did not want to make any specific suggestions for decreasing enrollment until he finds out whether the Illinois General Assembly and Gov. James Thompson will approve the BHE's recommendations and budget for higher education.

"The legislature can override the BHE's recommendation," Marvin said.

Marvin said that while he does have reservations about the BHE's recommendation, he will not "be the one to lead the charge to Springfield" to protest.

He said in the long run the plan could be beneficial for Eastern and he did not want to be the one to protest.

Marvin said that the underfunding Eastern has experienced in the last 10 years has negatively affected the quality of Eastern's programs.

"It's evident every place you turn," he said.

He mentioned as effects of un-

BOG favors recent enrollment directive

by Melinda DeVries

The Board of Governors is in favor of the directive issued recently by the Board of Higher Education to cut Eastern's enrollment by 400 students but that cut is too much of a decrease to reach by next year, a spokesman for the board said Tuesday.

BOG Executive Director Donald Walters said, "We (the BOG) agree with the BHE that the enrollment cut is a good measure, but we think it is a lot of students to ask a university to decrease in one year."

At the BHE's January meeting, the BHE said Eastern, along with Illinois State, Northern and Northeastern Illinois universities are underfunded and that those universities must cut their enrollments in order to receive an increase in their budgets.

The BHE proposed a 10.7 percent overall increase in Eastern's budget for fiscal year 1981, the second highest budget increase among all state universities.

Walters said Eastern will more than likely receive the 10.7 percent increase even if Eastern does not decrease its enrollment by 400.

"We (the BOG) have a strong commitment from the BHE that they are behind the 10.7 increase that was proposed. They realize the difficulty in cutting an enrollment by that much and will not penalize Eastern if the entire cut is not made," Walters said.

However, Walters said the BHE does expect to see some type of enrollment cut effort to begin at Eastern this fall.

Walters said Eastern's underfunded condition began approximately 10 years ago.

Eastern's enrollment had been fairly high in the late 60s and the underfunding problem arose in the early derfunding larger class sizes and thus less personal contact with students, equipment which needed upgrading—especially in the business and science departments—and fewer travel funds for faculty to enhance their classes.

However Marvin said the faculty at Eastern produce more than any other faculty at Illinois institutions. He said full work loads account for this.

"The quality of our faculty has remained high," Marvin said.

He said the BHE's planned enrollment decline will not cause any faculty or civil service jobs to be lost.

70s when Eastern's enrollment experienced a large decline, Walters said.

When enrollment declined, Eastern's budget was decreased according to projected enrollment declines, Walters said. However, after enrollment began increasing in the early 70s, the budget did not increase at the same rate as the number of students. Thus, Eastern could not recover from the loss of funding during the time its enrollment was increasing, Walters said.

Walters said the enrollment cut measure was issued to help Eastern's quality.

"Eastern is in danger quality-wise if it continues to get more and more students and still works with the same amount of money," Walters said.

"To have quality, you must have continued stable enrollment plus the right amount of money to manage the students you have," Walters added.

Carter considers asking for new draft registration

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is considering a proposal that he ask Congress to authorize a peacetime registration of draft-age youths, administration sources said Tuesday.

The sources said they were uncertain who made the proposal but added that they believed it came from within the White House staff.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, also said they were uncertain whether Carter would accept the proposal and whether he would include such a request to Congress in his State of the Union address Wednesday night.

If he does so, Carter will be changing his administration's position on the question of a peacetime registration.

Last summer Defense Secretary Harold Brown told Congress, "We don't propose to go to registration, let alone the draft, until we are convinced that other methods won't do the job."

Regency solves tenant complaints, gets more

by Jane Meyer

Regency apartment complex residents are still facing a variety of problems concerning repairs, ground maintenance and facilities access although many of the problems that were mentioned in a petition signed by 156 of the complex's residents have been corrected.

Early in December resident Dennis Grannan circulated a letter citing instances of management failure to comply with promises of fixing broken doors and furniture within the apartments and cleaning of apartment rugs.

Grannan said he and his roommates had talked to manager Doris Hamilton about fixing a broken air conditioning unit, but Hamilton allegedly countered the complaints with excuses. Grannan said Hamilton had earlier promised to have the apartment carpeting cleaned over the summer and then said the cleaning would be done over the Christmas break instead. Grannan said Hamilton then informed him the cleaning could not be done over break.

Grannan said Tuesday that not only was the living room carpet cleaned over the break but the broken air conditioning unit was replaced. Grannan said a repairman had also arrived to fix a broken door during finals week. Grannan said that since once of his roommates was studying for finals they asked the repairman to return later. The door has not been repaired as of yet.

A Lancaster resident, Dan Brannan, said he and his roommates had talked to the management about replacing a missing door leading to one of the bedrooms in the apartment.

Brannan said Monday that the door had been replaced shortly before he left for Christmas break.

While many repairs were made over break, residents have yet another complaint.

Various residents contacted Tuesday said the Regency gameroom which was supposed to be completed around the first of the year has been opened, but residents are able to use it only at certain times. The former gameroom was destroyed last Feb. 25 in a fire.

Resident Tim Condon said that although no formal announcement of the gameroom's opening was made by the management the facilities were in visible use as of last week.

"I noticed that people have been using the gameroom although when I checked yesterday at 6 p.m. it was closed. The same thing happened one afternoon last week," Condon said. "I called the manager and asked when the gameroom was going to be open. She said there was no set time as of yet. She said she didn't know if it was going to be open because someone had already burned a hole in the couch."

Manager Doris Hamilton said Tuesday that hours for the gameroom haven't been determined yet, although she expects to have them set in the near future.

Hamilton said that the gameroom has been open since the beginning of the semester and should be open for the residents use regularly if no major difficulties arise.

"The residents don't realize that I clean up every morning. I have found a cigarette hole in the couch and have found wrappers and potato chips crushed on the floor," Hamilton said. "How long the gameroom stays open depends on the residents. They have to know that the room is for them to use, not to abuse."

increase that figure.

As a suggestion from a student, Carter said he will tell his father the possibility of organizing a college student advisory board in order to help with any major decisions in education.

Carter said he has been campaigning for his father for the past three weeks, spending 12 days in Iowa, one in California and a few days in Illinois.

"I plan to be back in Illinois soon and often," Carter said. "All the Kennedys will be here, and so will Jerry Brown and his family. You may get sick of all of us before the primary is over."

Tribune survey supports boycott

CHICAGO (AP) - A Chicago Tribune poll of Chicago-area residents shows large support for President Carter's position that the United States Olympic team should boycott the summer games in Moscow or seek a new site.

The survey showed that persons 35 and under were most vehement in insisting that the Olympics should be staged outside the Soviet Union. Nearly five of six persons surveyed said the games should be moved to another country.

But there was little support to cancel U.S. participation in the Olympics, and most rejected an alternative proposal that Americans should compete among themselves at a site in this country, the newspaper said Tuesday.

Some 60 percent expressed support for staging an alternative Olympic competition in another country at the same time that the Moscow Games are held and welcoming all nations that want to compete but do not want to go to Moscow.

And a majority, 53 percent to 39 percent, also said they favored delaying the Olympic competition to 1981.

Student government has goals to meet

At the end of last semester, we congratulated student government for starting some concrete projects. Today, we would like to remind the student leadership not to procrastinate on the services they planned to start.

At the present moment, students are waiting for the enactment of the legal and escort services.

The legal service has been bogged down by the Board of Governors which wants to study the attorney's workload and the cost factor.

Last semester we said the legal service should be put into effect for a one-year trial period. That way, under actual operating conditions, the potential worth of the service can be decided.

The escort service is a campus project that has been slow in developing. The process started last semester of screening escorts and establishing procedures. Early action in the finalization of the project can get the escorts moving along.

New challenges will crop up this semester that student government must meet. Subjects of vital interest to students — tuition, fee appropriations, housing, enrollment, and elections — are slated to become issues or projects in the future.

The student leadership must take stands and make resolutions on these issues. The Student Senate must lobby with legislators as it has in the past and make an effort to represent the views of their constituents.

If student government members wish to meet their goals and challenges, the student leaders must recruit people interested in the policy-making decisions who can get the job done quickly and efficiently.

We acknowledge that the student administration did a good job last year, but there is room for improvement and expansion this semester.

The Iowa round is over in the Presidential Games

The Iowa Caucus is the new political game in the Midwest. It's fast, simple and easy for politicians to play.

To start, take three squares and build a campaign headquarters. If one of your opponents lands there, you collect bonus votes. If you wish to buy TV-media squares, it will advance you several places around the board and gives you three community affair cards.

Chance cards, on the other hand, are reserved only for darkhorse candidates.

If you can't get matching federal funds, you must go directly to jail, or in this game the equivalent—head of Bob Dole's campaign.

If you roll doubles the farmers will get suspicious. Riverboat gamblers rarely get away with loaded dice in Des Moines.

To get an extra roll, one must be well-known to the common man, a leading candidate. So Ronnie rolled a dozen times, all snake-eyes, and the voters became suspicious.

With the rules under their belt, the presidential hopefuls began the game. Poor Jerry Brown and Bob Dole tapped out early. John Anderson received a "Who Are You?" chance card and was left stranded in the pack.

Phil Crane just barely kept ahead of John. Rumor had it he had been in training in New Hampshire for several months.

John Connally, the big Texan, came with big money to the table. He bought the most media squares, so many in fact he chances an early straw vote card in hope he would zoom to victory. He lost.

Paul

George Bush was there in the number one seat next to Reagan, but since Reagan missed the debate forum square in the beginning, George took the lead.

Another factor in the game is the Iowa party regulars. They run around the board trying to be caught by the candidates. They are the unknown factor that can turn the tide one way or another. In the Demo race, Carter swam pretty good; Ted nearly drowned. Jerry Brown never had a chance to roll.

The points collected after this first meeting of the players is really not that significant in the overall point total. But by scoring points and finding weaknesses with your opponents, future campaigns in more important contests like New Hampshire or California can be won.

Round Two is scheduled for early February. It will probably run the same way as Monday with a few exceptions: a few less candidates and a lot more hype.

IPA session successful for journalism department

by Mickey O'Connell

A boon for Eastern's journalism department has handed a disappointment to the University of Illinois.

Recently, Eastern's journalism department was host for the 15th Annual Illinois Press Association Short Course attended by 26 members from professional newspapers throughout Illinois.

For the 14 previous years the course has been held at the University of Illinois.

However, the U of I was unwilling to bring in outside speakers, creating a stagnant program, Dan Thornburgh, chairman of the journalism department at Eastern and coordinator of the workshop, said Tuesday.

Thornburgh said he had talked to Dave West, IPA secretary-manager and director of the program, about the possibility of instituting an advanced program, involving lectures given by speakers outside of the journalism department.

This advanced section would enable more experienced journalists to delve into the coverage of such matters as professional ethics, state and local government, taxation, the courts and economics.

The only course previously offered at the U of I was an introductory journalism course, Thornburgh said.

This course dealt with the elementary procedures for reporters who had not attended college.

Courses in this year's program were

UB searching for arts coordinator

The University Board is searching for a performing arts and special events coordinator, Jean Goodwin, UB Chairman, said Monday.

Both jobs consist of scheduling and planning events throughout the year. The performing arts coordinator will mainly be concerned with events for next fall, while the special events coordinator will plan activities for this semester, Goodwin said.

Interested students should stop by the student activities center Monday Jan. 21 through Friday Feb. 1 in the Union walkway to sign up for one of the positions. Friday will be "mini recruitment" day with UB members available to talk to applicants about the openings.

Students offered European tour

A trip offered to Eastern students touring four European countries is being sponsored by the Education Cooperative of Chicago, coordinator Chris Hempen said.

The Education Cooperative is not affiliated with any school but works to plan educational trips for students, she said.

The trip is set for March 28 through April 6 and will make stops in the Netherlands, Belgium, Germany and England.

Hempen said the cost for the trip is $947 and includes air transportation, meals and entrance into sites on the itinerary.

Interested students should contact Hempen at 348-8403 for reservations.

taught by members of Eastern's journalism faculty.

Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin held a press conference for the journalists at the course and a program was also presented by Wayne Shile, publisher of the Decatur Herald.

Presentations were also made by Jim Dedman and Rick Hobler, assistant state's attorneys for Coles County, and Ahmad Murad, an Eastern economics instructor.

Thornburgh said the 1980 short course which was held in mid-January, was well critiqued by all participants.

He added that Eastern stands an excellent chance of hosting the program next year.

However, Thornburgh felt competition to gain the short course site may be greater next year.

The topic for next year's program will deal with an approach to journalism in the 1980s.

Tentative plans were made to hold another short course at Eastern in June, Thornburgh added.

Thornburgh was pleased with the solid support of Eastern's journalism department by the IPA.

"This is a shot in the arm for Eastern," Thornburgh said. "The department has gained state-wide recognition for the excellent handling of the short course."

UB shows 'Doonesbury'

A special Donnesbury video tape will be shown from 10 a.m. through 4 p.m. Tuesday through Friday in the University Union Old Ballroom.

Chuck Marley, UB video tape chairman, said the comedy is a special satire on politics, football and commune living.

Marley added that the comedy is free and open to the public.

Teacher education admission criteria approved

by Laura Rzepka

The Council on Teacher Education approved the selection and admission criteria to teacher education programs in four areas at its meeting Tuesday.

Criteria were approved in home economics, technology education, speech pathology and audiology and special education.

Patricia McAlister, chairman of the COTE, said the council has asked each area of teacher education to submit its program to examine the criteria for selection and admission to the teacher education programs.

All teacher education programs require a 2.25 cumulative grade point average before a student can be admitted except for the department of speech pathology and audiology which requires a 2.5 grade point average because it is a graduate program.

In other business, Barbara Owens of the home economics department said a course in occupational home economics was needed.

"I thought there was a void in the curriculum and I am striving to fill in the gap," Owens said.

The COTE approved the three-hour home economics course 2401, "Occupational Programs in Home Economics" and deleted three other courses, home economics 3401, 3402 and 3403 from the program.

Three elective hours will be transferred to allow for the new course, Owens said.

The COTE also adopted four special education courses if funds are provided to implement them.

The special education courses are 3340: "Nature and Needs of Children"

(birth through five), 3345: "Observation of Children" (birth through five), 3600: "Learning Theory Models in Special Education" and 4840: "Materials in Early Childhood for the Handicapped."

The proposed new courses are for the new early childhood program option in the special education major.

The special education department is concerned that students do not have adequate training to work with handicapped pre-school age children.

"We need to sensitize people to the needs of the handicapped," Timothy Crowner, chairman of the special education department, said.

The COTE also decided to respond to the mission statement released by Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin concerning the goals of the various university councils because teacher education was omitted from the statement.

"We feel teacher education should have major goals in the statement because 43 percent of the undergraduates at Eastern are in teacher education," McAlister said.

New airline serviced found to replace Ozark

by Dan Brannan

A verbal agreement has been reached between Britt Airways of Terre Haute and Coles County Airport for a new commuter airline service to replace Ozark Airlines which stopped operations out of Coles County Airport in December.

Mike Covalt, Coles County airport manager, said a written agreement should be signed between Britt Airways and Coles County Airport sometime in February.

Ozark Airlines has petitioned to discontinue its service as of April 1, 1980 and no other airlines are in contention to take over Ozark's services, Covalt said.

"Britt Airways is the most experienced as well as the most convenient replacement," he said. "There never was really any question that Britt Airways was going to be the replacement."

Covalt said Ozark's leaving is a result of the Deregulation Act of 1978.

"This act took away all restrictions on airlines," Covalt said. "Now airlines such as Ozark can fly longer routes without making short stops."

Covalt said Britt Airways will not immediately offer flights to St. Louis, but it will offer four daily flights to Chicago with stops at Champaign.

Covalt said if it appears to be profitable, Britt Airways will eventually offer services to St. Louis.

Covalt said he is very glad to see the company coming to Coles County.

"Britt Airways has been in business for 11 years, and during that time they have accumulated a very good record," Covalt said. "He (Britt) has doubled and sometimes tripled business in many places."

Covalt said Britt must first be accepted by the government as the replacement for Ozark, but it is fairly certain the airline will be approved.

Barring any unusual circumstances, Britt Airways will be flying a new commuter service through the skies from Coles County Airport starting April 1, 1980.

Renovations to include art work

by Rosalyn Johnson

Art work valued at approximately $5,014 will be purchased as part of Old Main's ongoing renovation, Don Carmichael, director of the Tarble Arts Center, said Tuesday.

Vaughn Jaenike, Dean of the School of Fine Arts, said 20 pieces of art consisting of drawings, photographs and prints will be purchased at $250 each.

The money to buy the art is coming from a law passed by the legislature last year. The law requires one half of one percent of the cost of building renovations to be used for art, Carmichael said.

Artists will be chosen from an exhibit to be held in the Paul Sargent Art Gallery this summer. The exhibit will be held from July 13 to Aug. 14 and will feature artists from all over the state.

Racquetballers enter tournament

by Marc LeSage

Eastern's racquetball club will send seven players to this weekend's Eastern Illinois Racquetball tournament at Danville, Barb Emerson, president of the club, said Monday.

The tournament consists of three classes: open, B and C, Kay Metzger, one of the club's competitors, said.

Hockey club wins 1-0

Defenseman Doug Andriason scored the only goal of the game with four minutes left in the third period to lift Eastern's men's hockey club to a 1-0 victory over Champaign last Saturday night in Champaign.

The victory was Eastern's first of the year, and goalie Dave Frye's shutout was the first for Eastern in the last three seasons.

Eastern's next contest will be against Knox College at 10:00 p.m. Friday in Peoria.

against the Salukis although he does expect a tough battle.

"We'll do okay as long as we don't fall into the other team's game. Skill-wise, I think that we're better."

Foellmer also said the regular starting lineup of Dean Sanders, Mark Atkinson, Fred Martin, and Randy McDaniels, along with rotating front and back players Jean Druetz, Gary Stewardson, Dave Gabriel, Foellmer and Tom Zwilling will remain the same for this weekend's competition.

Eastern will be playing in the first game Sunday beginning at 9:30 a.m.

The better players compete in the open class, with the B and C classes following.

Both teams and clubs are eligible to enter with no limit on entries, Emerson said.

Club members Gary Kruse and Kay Metzger were winners at the Melrose Park Insurance Agency Racquetball Championships in the co-ed doubles division in December, 1979, added Emerson.

They were recognized in this month's issue of Racquetball Everyone magazine for their accomplishment, she said.

"The club is looking forward to a successful and prosperous semester," Emerson said. Members will compete in upcoming tournaments against the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University-Carbondale.

Eastern cagers drop to eighth spot in ratings

Eastern's cagers dropped from fourth to eighth, and Mid-Continent Conference rival Youngstown State rose to the fifth position in this week's United Press International NCAA Division II basketball poll.

Eastern (12-3), has won two games and lost one since the last poll was released January 16. The Panthers defeated Northern Iowa 77-53 January 17, lost to Northern Michigan 69-68 January 19, and topped Bryant College 83-58 January 21.

Bryant was ranked sixth in Division II going into its contest with Eastern, but slipped to the No. 12 spot this week with a 10-3 record.

No. 9 ranked Puget Sound and Illinois State are the only other teams that have defeated the Panthers this season. Illinois State nipped Eastern 64-59 on December 14, and Puget Sound trounced the Panthers 77-54 on December 28.

Youngstown State jumped from eight to fifth in the poll on the basis of victories over Philadelphia Textile and Cheyney State, which was ranked No. 7 in Division II last week. Cheyney State dropped out of the top 15 this week. Eastern will battle Youngstown on January 31 at Youngstown.

The Panthers next contest is Thursday night at Southwest Missouri.

1. Central Missouri	14-0	120
2. Wright State	14-1	108
3. Central Florida	15-1	90

After 2 week break

Wrestlers work to get back in top form

by Dave Claypool

In all athletic events, a great deal of sweat and guts go into the conditioning for a wrestling season. And Eastern's grapplers were physically put to the test of regaining their top form after a two week layoff during Christmas break.

"We came back this semester with two left feet," senior All-American Bob Stout said. "We're really trying to tone ourselves right now to get ready for this weekend."

Friday the grapplers travel to Springfield, Mo., to compete in the Southwest Missouri tournament.

Coach Ron Clinton said the timing will also be essential to a successful comeback.

"The guys have really been working hard and they're doing the best they can," Clinton said. "I'm just anxious to see how good of shape we are in."

Although the grapplers will be working extra hard to get back into shape, conditioning is an everyday job for some wrestlers.

"The guys who wrestle at their approximate natural weight haven't got it too bad," Stout said. "My natural weight is around 185, so to wrestle at 167 I really have to work hard."

Continually faced with the pressure of making weight cuts, Clinton sees conditioning as a vital aspect of his squad's sport.

"I would imagine that it's 80 to 90 percent of wrestling, but there has to be an even balance of conditioning and technique," Clinton said.

Stout views conditioning as an individual responsibility.

"Being in shape means a lot to me because I don't feel that I have the natural tools that some other guys have," Stout said. "Each guy has his own feelings about being in shape though."

Clinton said that although running, jumping rope, and weight training are all essential to being in top condition for a meet, the greater percentage of "work-out" comes from wrestling in practice.

"We'll do road work for the legs and lungs but the best conditioning comes from wrestling on the mats in practice," Clinton said.

Stout noted that most of the weight that must be lost to make a weight cut consists primarily of water weight.

"You learn what foods to eat and not to eat, and when you're trying to make weight you get hunger

Eastern's wrestlers are now hard at work attempting to restore their bodies to their pre-Christmas form. The grapplers will be tested on their conditioning this weekend when they travel to pains at first, but since most of it is water weight it doesn't take that long to lose it," Stout said.

Stout noted one instance when he and 190-pounder Geno Savegnago had to lose nine pounds the day of a meet.

"We started running and jumping rope at around 11 a.m. and weigh-ins were at 5 p.m.," Stout recalled. "I was really worried because I had never lost that much weight in that short of time, but somehow we both made it."

Stout also said that his weight can fluctuate up to 10 pounds overweight in just one week.

While agreeing with the popular notion that conditioning is tougher than the match itself, Stout said that the personal satisfaction from winning a match is worth the hard work.

"Of course it's more fun to wrestle than practice, but once it's over you appreciate the hard work that you put in," Stout said.

Stout also noted that the loss of weight gets increasingly more difficult as the wrestlers get smaller.

"For me to lose five pounds would be like 20 for Randy (Blackman) to lose," Stout said. Blackman is a Panther All-American at the 118 pound weight class.

Clinton noted that psychology plays an important role in the conditioning preparations of wrestlers.

"You have to get psyched for both the conditioning and the match itself," Clinton said. "However, you do it differently for each."

Stout pointed out a technique used by Blackman in an earlier meet when he was about one half of a pound too heavy.

"He stood on his head for a couple of minutes and it worked," Stout said.

Although some wrestlers put a great deal of emphasis on the weight lifting portion of a conditioning program Stout does not.

"Geno and (Bob) McGuinn work out a lot with the weights, but I use them just to get toned," Stout said.

Clinton couldn't compare the conditioning of sports like football and basketball to wrestling but he did note that the overall goal of any competitive program is to be in the best possible physical shape.

Men spikers take fourth in weekend tourney

Eastern's men's volleyball club narrowly missed the finals of the Cincinnati Invitational over the weekend, coming up one game short of competing in the finals.

Eastern's club won six games and recorded four losses in the tournament to place fourth.

Eastern lost to Ohio Wesleyan 14-16 and 10-15 in the opening round of the tournament.

Club president Mark Foellmer said the Wesleyan losses kept Eastern from entering the final round of play.

"We played really inconsistent," Foellmer said. "All we needed was to win one of the Ohio Wesleyan matches to get us into the finals. We played their type of game—we played slop. We're a better team than they are."

Eastern split games with various opponents Wright State and the University of Michigan.

The local club won its first contest against Wright State 15-11, but lost its second game 8-15. Eastern also won the first game of the Michigan match-up 15-8, but suffered a 7-15 loss in its final game.

Eastern won its last four games of the day, defeating Earlham College of Indiana 16-4, 15-7, and Ohio Northern 15-7 and 15-5.

"As far as putting together the wins, we had a tough time," Foellmer said.

"With our split wins over powerhouses Wright State and Michigan, we expected to whip the rest of the teams easily."

"Offensively and defensively we played well, but we had trouble with our passing," Foellmer said. "That's the reason we had such a time posting the wins."

The club has a record of 2-1 with wins against Southern Illinois University-Carbondale and the University of Illinois earlier in the year. Eastern posted its sole loss to Southern in its first match of the season.

Eastern hosts its own round-robin tournament this Sunday against Illinois State University and SIU-C.

Foellmer said he expects a win. (See SPIKERS page 10)
